Many changes are occurring within the Law school and every effort is being made to report on these changes. There are, however, a great many other developments, both within and without the Law school, that are of interest to alumni, friends, faculty and students. Readers are therefore encouraged to submit items of general interest, of either news or commentary value, for publication.

Thank you, alumni, for helping us surpass our Law Fund goal by more than $30,000! We feel this was a tremendous outpouring of support and generosity. For a wrap-up of this drive, see pages 3 through 13. We are truly grateful for our many, many friends.

The 1980 College of Law Fund Report

Our $64,000 Goal Was Surpassed—Greatly!

Chairman's Message

Ask a friendly witness at trial a question you don't already know the answer to, and the result is predictable: a big surprise.

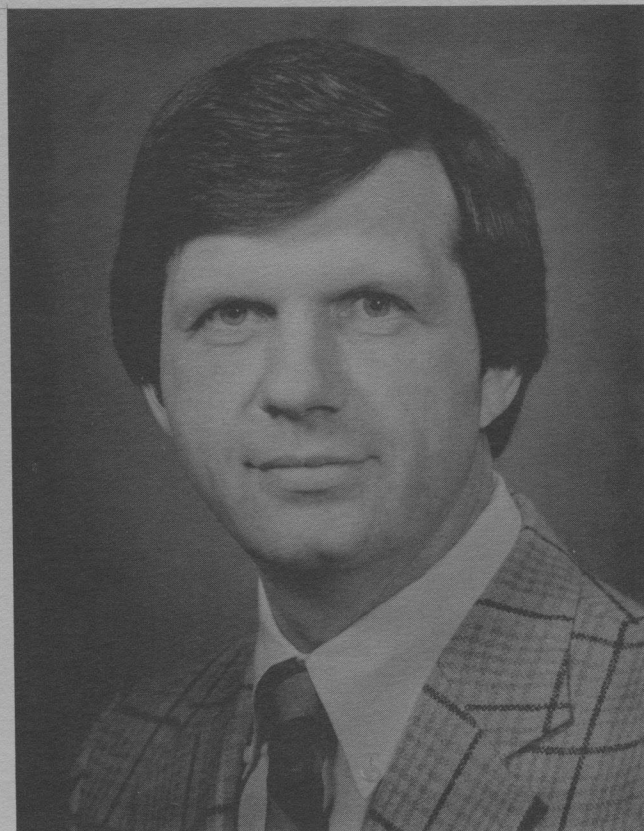

It seems that this old trial lawyer's axiom applies in fund-raising as well. But in fund-raising the surprise is not always a bad one.

Last June College of Law Fund volunteers first began asking you "The $64,000 Question." We all felt that that dollar goal was one we could achieve, perhaps even slightly surpass. By your generous response to our "questioning," you demonstrated what timid forecasters we really were!

Special thanks go to many people: Carroll Redford; Bob Houlihan; Judge Harris Howard; Roy Ray; Homer Ramsey; J. Woodford Howard, Jr.; members of the Lafferty Society, the Visiting Committee and Board of Directors of the College of Law Alumni Association; the 50+ Class and Area Agents. In addition, the generous gifts represented by the lengthy lists for the Dean's Club, Sponsors, Associates and Patrons merit hearty accolades. (The average gift among alumni was $143!)

By achieving this $93,000 total, we have made a statement to Dean Lewis and the faculty, to Dr. Singletary and the University leadership, to the Council on Higher Education and the Commonwealth: We are proud of our law school and we take our commitment to it seriously. Quality without compromise is what the school deserves; it is what we pledge to see it obtain.

Let's not stop here. We have shown that a six figure goal is attainable in the years ahead. What a nice surprise that achievement would be for 1981.

Dean's Response

In the last issue of The Review I reported on the first half of the year in a tone that at best could be described as cautious optimism. I can now report on the full academic year factually, rather than predictively, and I am happy to say that we have been able not only to preserve and strengthen the gains made in past years, but also to take a few more steps towards our goal of excellence.

At the time of earlier submission we were in our first year of a budget that reduced our accounts for general expenses, personnel, travel, printing, CLE, and student wages. I predicted that we could weather the reductions by making internal adjustments that would minimize effects on the quality of our programs—with some help from the College of Law Fund.

At that time I could see that the goal of the College of Law Fund during its fourth year would be met, and I could point out from logic and some experience during the year that adjustments we had made in our CLE programming would not have any significant effect on program quality.

At the same time, however, we were facing what appeared to be a bleak 1981-82 term and I expressed concern, particularly about the long-range outcome of the continuing struggle to repair past erosion of faculty salaries.

For the following reasons I can now report to you with unqualified optimism.

First, the College of Law Fund surpassed its goal by half.

Second, through the redoubled efforts of John Hickey and his reduced staff, we produced a record number of CLE programs and at the same time established a remarkable improvement in average attendance figures.

Third, our internal adjustments were gracefully received by faculty and staff. Never having been spoiled by a generous travel budget, we traveled even less—which is to say hardly at all—without serious complaint. Where it was essential that our College be represented, or where a faculty member was to play an active and important role during a conference, we found the money to support the necessary travel. The College of Law Fund helped.

Fourth, tuition increases will help offset reduced state budget projections, and with other economies adequate salary adjustment funds will be available for 1981-82. Relative to the past our students will pay substantially more in tuition next year, but compared to other law schools, especially private ones, and in light of career opportunities, their legal education is still a bargain.

Fifth, two other developments during this past semester, will further improve our faculty and strengthen morale. For the one remaining faculty vacancy we recruited one of our own outstanding graduates, Sarah Welling, '78. And as a result of the success of the College of Law Fund we were able to add an Alumni Professorship, which will be shared during 1981-82 by Professors Willburt Ham and John Garvey, both nominated by a committee of the Law Alumni Association oficers.

Sixth, our Recruitment Committee energetically pursued its new mandate to develop a recruiting program aimed at outstanding applicants who have been accepted by us and by several other law schools. We felt that in the past we had lost some of these students by default to other schools. Chaired by Professor Gerald Johnston, the Committee established contact with these applicants and invited them to visit the College, attend some classes, and raise questions concerning their choice of a law school. I am confident that a large number of these applicants will choose to attend the College of Law in the Fall.

Seventh, your Law Alumni Association acting through its Board of Directors completed one of its most active and productive years. Attendance at the several meetings of the Board was excellent and discussion was positive and fruitful. You surely have seen the Association's page in the Bench and Bar, which will be a continuing feature. We are indebted to President John Heyburn for this idea and its implementation.

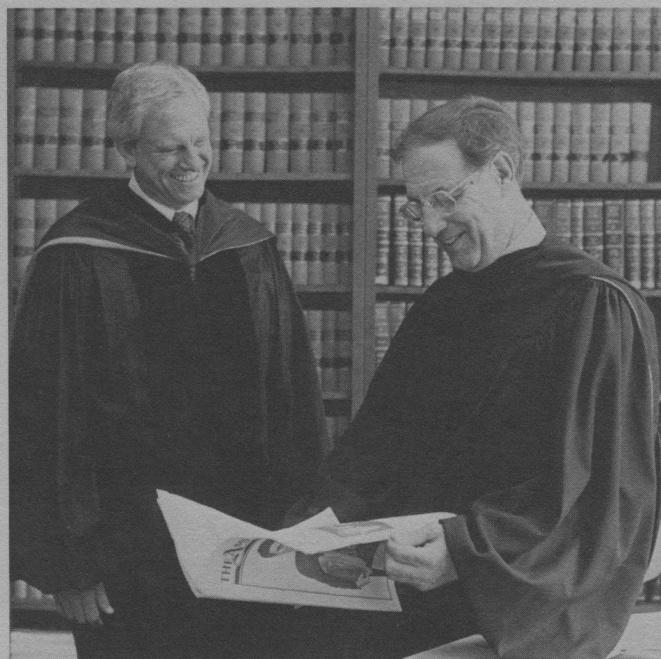

If you will think of our educational program as a structure, all of the above comments will be seen to relate to the foundation of the structure. The superstructure consists of what we as a faculty do to educate students and how we do it.

Our Curriculum Committee this year studied quite thoroughly the question of what we do—our conglomerate of courses, the sequence in which they are offered, and the credit hours allotted to them. The Committee's report stimulated more than nine hours of discussion during two Saturday faculty meetings.

We now have a better understanding of these facets of our curriculum than before, but we did not address to a significant extent teaching methodology—the question of how we use the allotted credit hours. As you know, the casebook and variations on the use of lecture, and the so-called socratic method, constitute the core of our methodology. These are proven tools and most agree that they should not be abandoned, especially in the first year.

A former student wrote Professor Robert Lawson recently: "In these past nine years I have given you credit many times for the legal abilities I have. You are largely responsible for my ability to function in a courtroom (the focus of the letter was on evidence). When I was a student I opposed the casebook method of study. How wrong I was. That method made my training stick with me. It now allows me to think through problems."

As Professor Whiteside once wrote, in effect, "The success of our alumni shows that we must be doing something right." I am nevertheless nagged by the question of whether we could do even better by introducing some new methodologies, not as complete substitutes for, but as supplements to, our existing approaches. In the most general terms the question for me is whether we should seek to make the students' legal education a somewhat more active—less passive—process than it now is.

Next year I hope to launch such an inquiry, involving successful practicing lawyers with faculty and students in the inquiry. I will be seeking lawyers who have been in practice from about eight to 15 years, who have sufficient interest in the matter to devote some time to the development of actual models for legal education in general, or for specific courses.

In the meantime, if you have some ideas you would like to pass along to me I will be very happy to hear from you.

The Lafferty Society

Begun in 1977 and open to all alumni and friends of the University of Kentucky, the Lafferty Society is the College's leading gift recognition club. During the 1980 Fund year, cumulative gifts and pledges from Society members passed the half-million dollar mark.

The Society, named for Judge William T. Lafferty, the College of Law's first dean, is composed of University of Kentucky Fellows who designate at least one-half of their gift commitment to the College of Law. Fellows Program/Lafferty Society gifts may be designated for any current support, capital, or endowed purpose.

Individuals may qualify for the University of Kentucky Fellows Program by making a present gift of $10,000 or more; or by indicating an intention to contribute $10,000 or more within a 10-year period in installments of $1,000 or more per annum; or by making a commitment to make a deferred gift of at least $25,000 in an appropriate manner (details upon request).

Further information on the University of Kentucky Fellows Program and the College of Law Lafferty Society may be obtained from Carroll D. Stevens, Society Secretary, (606) 258-8959.

Dean's Club

The Dean's Club is composed of individuals whose gifts to the College of Law in an annual-giving year total $1,000 or more. Many Dean's Club members have committed themselves to sustained giving at this level in fulfillment of a Lafferty Fellows pledge. The entire College community expresses its gratitude, by this recognition, for truly exemplary stewardship.

UK Lawyers in Academe

In recent years a number of UK College of Law graduates have gone on to successful careers in law teaching. For this issue of The Review, the staff compiled some biographical information on professorial alumni who teach at other institutions. Our apologies to anyone we may have overlooked.

Thomas L. Jones '61, Professor, University of Alabama School of Law.

After graduation from law school, Jones took an LL.M. at Michigan, where he served as a teaching assistant. He joined the Alabama faculty in 1962 and has served there since, in many different positions of responsibility. He was Associate Dean 1970-75 and Acting Director of the Alabama Law Institute 1972-75.

He serves the profession as a member of ALI and as a member and officer of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws. In 1977-78 he was Chairman of the Section on Real Property, Probate and Trust Law of the Alabama Bar Association.

Professor Jones teaches in the estate planning and taxation areas. He is a prolific author, having published several Alabama practice aids and a number of articles in scholarly journals.

Tom Jones

Dee Ashley Akers

Dee Ashley Akers '50, Professor, University of Louisville School of Law, Director, Government Law Center, University of Louisville.

A political scientist as well as a lawyer, Professor Akers has had a distinguished career in teaching and public service. He served as secretary of the Development Cabinet and administrator of the Kentucky Center for Energy Research under the Carroll administration. Earlier in his career he served the Commonwealth as Revisor of Statutes, Secretary of the Constitution Revision Assembly, and Regulations Compiler.

Dr. Akers is a recipient of the Governor's Medallion and U of L's Distinguished Service Award. He is widely published in the energy and administrative law areas. He serves on a number of state and national energy-related commissions.

Joseph E. Conley, Jr. '77, Assistant Professor, Louisiana State University Law Center (beginning August 1981).

Conley is a newcomer to law teaching. He will this summer complete graduate study at the University of Illinois College of Law. He has practiced since graduation from law school with the Cincinnati law firm of Strauss, Troy & Ruehlmann. While in law school, he was an editor of the Kentucky Law Journal and was a member of the 1976-77 National Moot Court Team. Joe is a member of the Kentucky and Ohio Bar Associations. His undergraduate degree is from the University of Cincinnati.

Charles Gromley '51, Professor, Valparaiso University School of Law.

A former Note Editor of the Kentucky Law Journal, Professor Gromley has taught in various law schools. His teaching career began at the University of Nebraska in 1954, continuing at Willamette, 1955-60. Except for a period as visiting professor at the University of Tennessee-Knoxville in 1978, he has been since 1960 a member of the Valparaiso faculty.

His areas are real and personal property, wills, trusts and future interests. He is the faculty adviser to the Moot Court Program at his law school. In 1973, Professor Gromley was awarded the Valparaiso University Alumni Distinguished Teaching Award. His graduate law degree is from Georgetown University.

Owen D. Basham '67, Associate Professor, The Judge Advocate General's School, U.S. Army.

A graduate of Murray State University and the Judge Advocate General's School, Basham served as a trial lawyer and trial judge, 1967-77. He has authored several specialty publications and reference works.

He has served as a visiting lecturer at the AMEDD Psychology Symposium in Washington, D.C.; Virginia Psychology Association Convention, Richmond, Va; Forensic Psychiatry Conference, Fort Gordon, Ga; Regional Reserve Officer Attorney's Conference, Columbia, S.C. and Columbus, Ohio; San Francisco, Calif., and Honolulu, Hawaii. His major subjects are criminal law, criminal procedure and trial advocacy.

William R. Jones '69, Dean and Professor of Law, Salmon P. Chase College of Law, Northern Kentucky University.

A former Cook Fellow at the University of Michigan, Dean Jones has taught at Indiana University-Indianapolis and Nova University's Center for the Study of Law.

He has also been a lecturer at the Indiana State Police Academy and Indiana Judicial Center's programs for probation and parole officers. His teaching has focused on criminal procedure, evidence, search and seizure, drug abuse and the criminal process.

A former businessman, lawyer and teacher, Dean Jones has been at Chase since 1979.

William Jones

Susan Czaky

Susan Dischka Csaky '78, Associate Professor, Law Librarian, University of Missouri-Columbia School of Law.

Susan Csaky is well-known to recent graduates of the College of Law. She served in the Evans Law Library 1963-74, the last year as associate law librarian. In the period 1975-78 she headed the Government Publications Department of the University library system, moving in 1979 to University of Missouri-Columbia.

Susan is a native of Budapest, Hungary and is conversant in six languages. Her undergraduates and graduate degrees are from Georgia, Johns Hopkins, and the University of North Carolina, respectively. Her publications and professional activities are numerous, encompassing a wide variety of professional and personal interests.

Kathleen F. Brickey '68, Professor of Law, Washington University.

Professor Brickey currently teaches in the areas of commercial law, criminal law, unfair trade practices and, in a seminar setting, corporate criminal accountability. She joined the Washington faculty in 1978, after teaching at the University of Louisville School of Law 1972-75.

While in Kentucky, she served on the Kentucky Penal Code drafting staff in the Kentucky Crime Commission. She was executive director of the Kentucky Judicial Conference and Council, 1971-72. She is an author of Kentucky Criminal Law and its 1978 Supplement, as well as a number of articles in scholarly journals. She is presently at work on a two-volume treatise on Corporate Criminal Accountability.

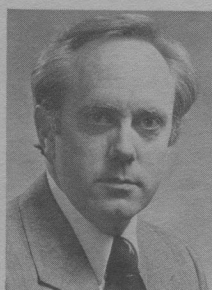

Michael P. Cox '68, Professor, University of Oklahoma College of Law.

A native of Lexington and a 20-year veteran of the University educational system—kindergarten through law school—Professor Cox is a recent recipient of the J.S.D. degree from the Columbia Law School.

He has published articles on such diverse subjects as the jurisprudence of discretionary governmental processes, part-time legal education, the Freedom of Information Act, and the Oklahoma Administrative Procedures Act.

Kathleen Brickley

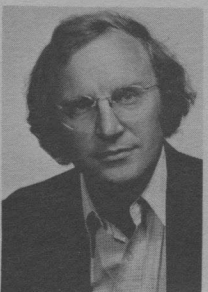

Michael Cox

He served for five years in the United States Army JAG Corps. He has been at the University of Oklahoma since 1974. His awards include three for excellence in teaching.

James R. Elkins '72 Associate Professor, West Virginia University College of Law, is currently completing a term as a visiting scholar at the Stanford Law School.

His career history is unique and well-rounded, indicating experience as an Assistant U.S. Attorney, trial work in the Justice Department itself, teaching at DePaul University School of Law and an adjunct professorship in psychiatry at WVU. He holds an LL.M. degree from Yale and has published in eight different law reviews.

A frequent lecturer, Professor Elkins has been awarded grants from the Kellogg National Fellowship and the Health Law Institute. In late 1980 he was elected president of the American Legal Studies Association.

James Elkins

Edward Ziegler

Edward H. Ziegler, Jr. '73, Associate Professor, University of Dayton School of Law, holds the graduate law degree from the George Washington University National Law Center where he lectured in legal research and writing.

In 1974—1975 he was a lawyer for the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, resigning that position to join the Chase College of Law faculty. His teaching areas are property and land use planning.

While at Chase, Ed was well-known for his contributions to the body of Kentucky administrative law. He is a member of the Environmental Law Institute and a contributing editor of the Toxic Substances Journal. He has published in the areas of environmental and administrative law.

Roy R. Ray '28, Emeritus Professor, Southern Methodist University School of Law.

A familiar figure to all Kentucky graduates, Professor Ray continues to be active in scholarly and professional pursuits. He recently published the Texas Law of Evidence, Third Edition, a three-volume set. Over the past two years he has been granted the Distinguished Alumnus Award by Centre College and the Recognition of Merit Award from the University of Kentucky College of Law. He is a University Fellow and a member of the Judge William T. Lafferty Society.

Professor Ray has been a member of the College's Board of Visitors since 1978. He and his wife, Virginia, have endowed a special lectureship at the College which in 1981 brought Jesse Choper from the University of California-Berkeley law faculty to address the College community.

Professor Ray's achievements are numerous. He holds the Doctor of Juridical Science from the University of Michigan. By avocation an arbitrator he has taught at the University of Michigan, University of Colorado, and Vanderbilt.

W. Eugene Basanta '75, Assistant Professor, Southern Illinois University School of Law.

Professor Basanta recently received the LL.M. degree from Temple University. He holds a bachelor's degree from Williams College and worked for four years with the Kentucky firm of Greenebaum, Doll & McDonald. He joined the SIU faculty in the fall of 1980, teaching legal writing, introduction to law, consumer protection and commercial law. He advises the school's law journal and counsels several student groups.

Gary R. Smith '69, Professor, Emory University School of Law.

A former associate dean at Emory, Professor Smith holds an LL.M. degree from NYU. He practiced for two years with the Atlanta firm of Powell, Goldstein, Frazer & Murphy, and is admitted to the Bars of Kentucky, Florida and Georgia.

Active as a teacher and scholar in the areas of law and medicine, products liability, torts and workmen's compensation, Professor Smith is a member of the Governor's Legal Advisory Council on Workmen's Compensation and the Medical-Legal Committee of the Atlanta Bar Association.

Bardie C. Wolfe, Jr. '67, Librarian and Professor, Pace University School of Law, is a former librarian and associate professor at the University of Tennessee College of Law.

He has also held positions in the library systems of the University of Texas, University of Virginia and the Cleveland-Marshall School of Law. He is active in the American Association of Law Librarians and is a member of the American Judicature Society.

Christine Williams '76, Assistant Professor, University of Maryland School of Law, holds an undergraduate degree from SUNY-Binghamton.

She is a member of the Kentucky and D.C. Bars and is a former trial attorney with the U.S. Department of Justice. Her teaching areas are commercial law, commercial paper, contracts and legal method.

Chauncey E. Brummer '74, Assistant Professor, University of North Carolina School of Law.

Professor Brummer is a former Reginald Heber Smith Fellow and attorney for the Louisville & Nashville Railway. He teaches family law and juvenile law.

John H. Yeager '48, Professor, Drake University Law School.

Currently teaching in the areas of criminal law, insurance, remedies, and conflicts, Professor Yeager's expertise encompasses a wide variety of areas. He has been a regular consultant to the Iowa General Assembly and the Iowa Bar Association during his 30-year career at Drake. He holds a graduate law degree from Columbia and was for academic year 1979-80 the acting dean of his institution.

Bertel M. Sparks '48, Professor, Duke University School of Law, was awarded the S.J.D. degree by the University of Michigan Law School in 1955.

A former editor-in-chief of the Kentucky Law Journal, Professor Sparks taught at NYU 1949-50; and has been at Duke ever since. He serves as a consultant to the National Conference of Bar Examiners, and has advised a number of legislative bodies during his career.

Professor Sparks' teaching areas are credit transactions, decedents' estates, future interests and real property. He is the author of two casebooks in the wills and estates areas.

Henry L. Stephens, Jr. '75, Assistant Professor, Salmon P. Chase College of Law, Northern Kentucky University, is a former member of the Louisville law firm of Middleton, Reutlinger & Baird.

He worked as a staff attorney for the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection immediately prior to joining the Chase faculty. He is a member of the American Arbitration Association and an authority in coal law, evidence and environmental law.

W. Nicholas Pope '67, Assistant Professor and Associate Librarian, Cleveland-Marshall College of Law, Cleveland State University.

A former member of the Ashland Oil corporate legal staff and corporate counsel for the Commonwealth Land Title Insurance Company, Professor Pope returned to UK in the late 1970s, receiving his M.S.L.S. in 1979.

New Law Alumni Professors Named

University President Otis A. Singletary has announced the appointment as Law Alumni Professors Willburt D. Ham and John T. Garvey, effective July 1, 1981.

Professors Ham and Garvey were recommended for the appointment by a committee composed of alumni and faculty, and were appointed by College of Law Dean Thomas P. Lewis. The award to Ham was, in the committee's words, "in recognition of many years of conscientious and excellent contribution to the College of Law;" and to Garvey for his "scholarly achievements of extraordinary magnitude."

The creation of Law Alumni Professorships was approved by the Board of Directors of the College of Law Alumni Association in 1978. Paul Oberst and Robert G. Lawson were named recipients in 1979.

In a related matter, Dean Lewis recently announced the promotion of John Garvey to Professor of Law.

Liberty and the Law — 1981

Julian Bond, civil rights leaders and president of the Southern Poverty Law Center, was the special guest speaker for the Student Bar Association's Law Week program series held March 30-April 2.

Other activities included an address by Neil Welch, Kentucky's Secretary of Justice, former FBI Bureau chief and Abscam operative.

A debate on religious liberty in public schools featured Theodore Amshoff, Jr. and William Stone, lawyers who practiced opposite sides of the Kentucky Ten Commandments case for the U.S. Supreme Court.

A panel discussion of abortion rights issues was also included as a part of the three-day event.

Jesse Choper

Professor Jesse Choper Delivers Ray Lecture

Jesse H. Choper, Professor at the University of California-Berkeley School of Law, delivered the annual Roy R. and Virginia F. Ray lecture at the College, Wednesday, April 8. His address, "The Limits of Affirmative Action," was delivered in the courtroom to a near-capacity crowd of law students, law faculty and members of the University community.

Choper, a former member of the Minnesota law faculty and law clerk to Chief Justice Earl Warren, teaches in the constitutional law and corporations areas. He has authored with Lockhart & Kamisar Constitutional Law: Cases, Comments and Questions and the American Constitution: Cases and Materials. With Frey, Leach and Morris, he has published Corporations: Cases and Material.

A Sizable Crowd for Louisville Luncheon

A total of 55 practitioners and members of the College faculty met for lunch at the Jefferson Club on St. Patrick's Day, March 17. Organized by Association President John G. Heyburn II, the event attracted alumni and friends young and old. The good number of faculty in attendance was due to the fact that the College was on spring break at the time. Many have suggested that the event be established on an annual basis.

A Degree of Perseverance

Eleven years after beginning law study, Robert Curba Deen, class of '81, is the proud recipient of the Juris Doctor degree. He began his studies at the UK College of Law in 1970 as a part-time student. Now, finally, it is all behind him.

Bob Deen, a registered professional engineer, is director of the Kentucky Transportation Research Program, UK College of Engineering, a program with which he has been associated since 1963. He holds undergraduate and Masters degrees in Engineering from UK and Ph.D. in Civil Engineering from Purdue University.

A self-described lifelong learner, Bob began to feel in the late 1960s a need to be better acquainted with law and the legal system. One course in the College of Law led to another and before he knew it, he had accumulated enough hours to make obtaining a degree not totally out of the question.

For a decade Bob enrolled in courses as his work demands permitted. Along the way, he kept piling up awards in the engineering profession. He was named Alumnus of the Year, Department of Civil Engineering, UK, 1971, Outstanding Engineer and Government Award, Kentucky Society of Professional Engineers, 1977, installed in Who's Who in Engineering by the Engineers Joint Council in 1977, and won the second place award for Best Technical Paper, Southern Section, Institute of Transportation Engineers in 1978.

Additionally, he was profiled in late 1979 in Transportation News, a publication of the Transportation Research Board. In 1980, he was awarded the Certificate of Service by the American Society for Testing Materials, Committee on Soil and Rock.

A man who is also active in the community, Bob Deen has served as president of the Voluntary Action Center of Lexington-Fayette County, which assists individuals and provides community agencies with needed volunteers. He has been active in the UK United Campus ministry, the Kentucky Triangle House Corporation and Rotary Club's World-wide programs.

The Law Alumni Association extends its congratulations to Bob Deen for his latest accomplishment—achieving entry into the legal profession.
